

DAURIGNAC NOT ALLOWED TO LAND

Mme. Humbert's Brother Must Go Back.

PROTESTS ARE OF NO AVAIL

Immigration Commissioners Quickly Decided That He Was Not Wanted in This Country.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—It required only ten minutes for the board of special inquiry to reach unanimous decision that Romaine Daurignac, brother of Mme. Humbert, who had arrived here on Saturday by the French liner Touraine, must go back by the same vessel.

In company with the steerage passengers of that ship, Daurignac was brought to Ellis Island and arraigned before the board of special inquiry.

In Just Ten Minutes.

Just ten minutes was consumed in his examination, and then it was decreed that he could not be allowed to land—this under that provision of the law which forbids anyone who has been convicted of a crime.

Daurignac, who seems to have had a misty idea that his offense against the laws of France might in some way be construed by the authorities here as being one of a political nature, and as such bringing him in the class to which this country gives refuge, first protested against the ruling and sought to convince the board that it was through the animosity of political foes that he had been convicted.

Tribunal Differed.

But the members of the tribunal could not see how political persecution had entered into his conviction of being an accessory to the forming of an unlawful corporation, and issued a peremptory order that he be sent back by the vessel which had brought him here.

After this decision had been reached, Daurignac told the newspaper men that he had a special purpose in coming here and that he would make a special plea to the commissioner of immigration to allow him to go ashore, if only for a few hours. He would give his word of honor to return at any stipulated time, and if that were not sufficient he would not object to a guard accompanying him. He refused to say what this important mission was.

Has Plenty of Money.

The Frenchman says he has with him 2,000 francs, and a letter of credit, but refuses to say on whom the letter is drawn nor would he tell the amount.

OLD GUARD GOES TO GETTYSBURG

The Old Guard, one of the most exclusive military organizations in the District, left Washington for a special car this morning over the Baltimore and Ohio railway to attend the twenty-fourth annual encampment of the Sons of Veterans held at Gettysburg, Pa., all this week.

The delegation was headed by Lieut. Charles L. Hatten, and Sergt. M. M. Lewis, bearing the colors of the organization. Maj. E. R. Campbell, past commander-in-chief of the Sons of Veterans, who is also an honorary member of the Old Guard, accompanied the party. It was through Major Campbell's initiative that the invitation was extended to the Old Guard. Many of the members of this veterans' organization fought at the battle of Gettysburg. Wednesday the entire day will be given over to visiting the old battlefield, and North and South will shake hands where years ago they crossed swords.

SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS MAN WILL CELEBRATE

Pioneer Leather Merchant of Washington About to Complete Fifty Years of Effort.

James S. Topham, one of the oldest and best-known residents of Washington, will on next Wednesday celebrate the half century of his business career in the Capital.

Mr. Topham is known far and wide as the pioneer leather merchant of Washington, and since he came here a young man twenty-three years old he has gradually built up one of the best-known leather houses in the country.

Fifty Years of Progress.

On next Wednesday he will have completed fifty years as a Washington business man, and he has extended a cordial invitation to his patrons to visit his sales and warehouses on that day. Attractive souvenirs, little leather purses of Mr. Topham's own work, have been prepared for the visitors.

Fifty years ago Mr. Topham moved from Philadelphia to Washington. In the former city he had learned the trade of a practical leather worker, and realizing that the future of primitive Washington was assured, he determined to make this city his home.

Business progressed with such re-

Markable success that he decided to remove to a more convenient location, and so established himself at 1231 Pennsylvania avenue. It was not long before he was compelled to take in the adjoining property and in 1901, realizing the trend of trade toward F street, Mr. Topham moved to that section, where he is now occupying the premises at 1219 F street.

Filled Government Contracts.

Mr. Topham is seventy-three years old, and is the most active man about his work rooms. During the civil war and the Spanish-American war he filled a number of Government contracts, one of the most notable orders having been for 60,000 pairs of leather leggings. He furnished the traveling outfit for General Grant's tour of the world, and has supplied leather goods to every President since the time of Lincoln.

In addition to the tremendous business done in the sale and manufacture of goods, Mr. Topham's house repairs on an average of 2,000 trunks every year.

Good wishes are pouring in on Mr. Topham, and his fifty years are now proving to this veteran merchant the legion of friends who were gathering during that half century.

Man's Heart Is Taken Out and Then Put Back

Interesting Surgical Operation Performed in Philadelphia and the Patient Will Recover—Was Shot in Chest.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18.—The removal of a man's beating heart from his body and its replacement after a bullet had been extracted from the region adjacent to it has just been accomplished by the physicians at the Germantown Hospital.

Frank Robinson, twenty-three years old, of Germantown, was shot on September 7 by Policeman Morley, while the latter was trying to arrest him. The bullet entered Robinson's chest on the left side. He was hurried to the Germantown Hospital where it was believed his heart had been struck.

Some of the most eminent physicians of the city were called into consultation. Portions of two ribs were removed, exposing the heart to view. No evidence of a bullet could be seen, so the surgeon with great care partly removed the organ from the body.

The bullet was found imbedded in the flesh within a fraction of an inch of the heart, upon which it had caused pressure. The heart was then replaced and the ribs returned and covered with flesh. There is every probability that Robinson will entirely recover.

SUICIDE'S REMAINS FOUND BY DREDGER

Half a mile out from the shore of Marshall Hall the body of George Robertson, who drowned himself on Friday afternoon, was found by two men on a dredger this morning.

Robertson's remains are at present tied to the dredger and will be kept there until a boat is sent down by Frank Hall, Robertson's employer, or the police to bring them to the city.

If the police do not send for the body this afternoon, Mr. Hall will hire a craft to make a hurried trip to Marshall Hall and bring the body to the city. The remains will be buried by the members of the Fourth Immune Camp, Spanish War Veterans, of which Robertson was a member during the Spanish-American war.

The Real Love Letters of a Real Woman

A series of letters that form part of a genuine romance.

They were written by a talented woman to the man she wished to marry, but to whom her family objected, and the correspondence covers several years. Without being over-sentimental they have sufficient of the dramatic element to make them quite the best reading of the year.

They are uniformly bright and interesting, with here and there a touch of delightful wit. Woven into them is a tone of pathos—the subdued grief of a genuine woman who is crossed in hopeless love.

Recently a situation was created which forever made impossible the marriage that both had hoped might crown their long romance. The woman asked for the return of her letters, to which the man agreed on one condition—that they be published anonymously and then destroyed. He thought their literary excellence deserved a better fate than destruction.

Because of this condition The Washington Times has secured the letters in confidence and will publish one each day until the series is complete.
